

Nishant Piyush

is on his way to becoming a successful young entrepreneur

Smartphones and social platforms are not only a medium for talking to each other and time passes, but most of the youth are also looking for their golden future in it. Nishant Piyush is also one of them. Nishant, a resident of Muzaffarpur city of Bihar, completed his tenth standard education from there and came to Kota for the preparation of IIT. 19 years old, Nishant started working as a freelancer in Digital Marketing while doing B.Tech in Electronics and Communication from Delhi IP University after twelfth and is set to create his own company after almost three years.

Nishant says about this that the secret of his success is his hard work and dedication to work. As a digital marketer, Nishant worked for about 16 hours a day. He said that he has got a big recognition as a freelancer in this field. He has worked for the branding of many famous celebrities, Punjabi music companies and products. Their way of working makes them different from other digital marketers. This is the reason that many times he is praised by celebrities, who have been promoted by Nishant. Today Nishant has national and international customers. With a major achievement at an early age, Nishant is looking to build a digital marketing company soon, and wants to bring him international recognition.

Nishant's dedication to work has made him an example to the youth who want to fly high in the online arena. For him, Nishant says that earlier there was not much awareness about the online platform, but now everyone is increasingly accepting it as a new thing. Regarding the challenges faced in digital marketing, Nishant said that competition in this field is also increasing rapidly, many people are involved, but in the end you have a different way of working and customer satisfaction comes to you.
